Letter From Your Editors

This yearbook class wasn't anything like years passed. With only three returning students, the beginning was a bit of a challenge. It was even a first for our teacher, Mrs. O'Neill. With that being said, it did not slow anyone down. Mrs. O'Neill was awesome; she talked with previous yearbook teachers and with current yearbook teachers from other schools about how to create a well-rounded yearbook. She wanted to make sure our first book was a great one. There were 20 very talented students in our class. Some, could capture a moment full of emotion; others, use words that bring you right back to the time and place of a moment; and not to forget the ones who could put both together to design a spread that looks to be done by a professional. We all worked very hard throughout the year; and hope that all of our hard work shows in this book. Besides putting together the yearbook the class sold "Love Lowell" bracelets. These were a fundraiser that not only helped fund your yearbook but also show town pride! In years past, yearbook put on battle of the bands; this year we switched it up and had Lowell's Got Talent. Lowell's Got Talent is a show that we put together to showcase LHS student talents. We had everything from singers, bands, instrumentalists, dancers, and even a few teachers. The yearbook would like to thank all who participated in the show as well as everyone who came out to support our school. We would like to thank every member of the yearbook class for their outstanding effort and amazing work. We would also like to speak on behalf of the yearbook staff and thank all the students and teachers who participated in our surveys, gave wonderful quotes, and who allowed us to capture their memorable moments to make our 2009 - 2010 yearbook. Another special thanks to of the businesses and parents who bought an ad. Your participation is what helps our book stay strong.

Yearbook Editors:

Valarie Gasparovic and Grant Sheridan

Katie Morario (11) looks over the cover page.

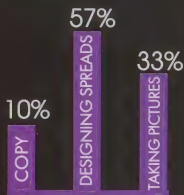

Allie Steur (12) and Becca Gruhlike (11) having fun.

Katie Morario (11), Jamie Schiessle (11), Becca Gruhlike (11), and Danielle Savich (11) pose for a picture while taking a break from writing their copy.

Our FAVORITE Things About Yearbook

Danielle Savich (11) and Kaitlyn Rodenbucher (11) show off their own style while roaming the halls taking fashion pictures.

“Yearbook was my favorite class this year! I absolutely loved it, it was the best ever!!”
-Cale Maguire (11)

Yearbook

Danielle Savich (11) and Leyanne Burgans (11) smile for the camera.

“Enjoy your book!”
Yearbook Staff

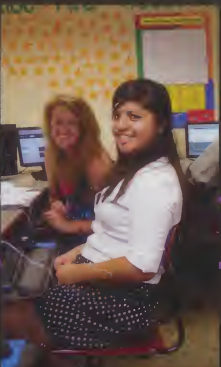

Kelsi Roadruck (10), Katie Gasparovic (10), Grant Sheridan (11), Valarie Gasparovic (11), Sarah Starcevic (10), and Jamie Schiessle (11) at a summer yearbook camp.

Kelsi Roadruck (10) observes Leyanne Burgans (11) as she relaxes and reads a book.

Becca Gruhlke (11) and Allie Steur (12) eat some dessert while their classmates finish their spreads.

Sara Rangel (11) and Allie Steur (12) work on their yearbook spreads.

Grant Sheridan (11), one of the editors, uses the white board to explain something to the class.

Jamie Schiessle (11) and Becca Gruhlke (11) embrace each other, celebrating the last day of the school year and the completion of the yearbook.

Making Summer of '09 Fine!

Anticipation flooded the school as the clock counted down. Students all over awaited the ringing of the bell that they had heard thousands of times throughout the year. The moment had finally arrived. As the school emptied, plans of hanging out with friends and heading to the beach filled the air. Danielle Starceovich (11) said her first thought when she walked out of school was, "No homework!" With all the thoughts racing through students' minds, they all had one in common...summer of '09 was here.

Sun. Fun. Work. For some, summer meant driving out to sandy beaches with friends and soaking up the rays all day. For others, summer brought demanding and tiring hours spent at practices or summer jobs. When asked how they spent their summer, Jake Hayden (10) and Danny Reyes (10) said, "Football. Football. And more football."

From trying to make every moment of a vacation count to pushing oneself through each minute of a practice, every day of the summer was spent living in the moment. No matter how one spent his/her time, everyone worked hard to make sure the summer of '09 would never be forgotten.

All about the season.

How do you feel about the captains?

"They're just a bunch of characters." -Jake Payton (12)

What is your best memory from this season?

"When we heard sirens and Coach Kennedy said, 'They're coming to arrest us because we suck so bad.'" -Jake Grah (12)

Of all your coaches who has helped you the most?

"Coach Kennedy because he said, 'A satisfied man has no hope.' It really inspired me to never give up." -Brandon Reed (10)

What do you look forward to the most?

"Four corners!" -Tony Demario (12)

When it comes to football who is your idol?

"Grandpa...because he's the man." -Brandon Grubbe (12)

These are the words to live by if you're a Red Devil. The Varsity Football team did not disappoint. Led by senior captains Joe Bell, Tony Demario, Brandon Grubbe, and Ray Skamay, the Devils posted multiple shut-outs (five to be exact) and kept the beloved sectional streak alive at seven and counting. A pleasant surprise for a team that was "too little", "too young", and "too inexperienced" or a team that was 7-0 but still rumored to play without passion. A loss to Munster and a comeback win over Andrean to make the regular season 8-1, was all the Devils needed to get some fire under their bellies. Drawing a number-3-ranked Plymouth in the first round of sectionals left everyone to believe the end was near. Everyone, that is, except the Red Devils, who played their best ball when they needed it most, knocking off five top-ten ranked teams before falling to Evansville Reitz in the state championship. The scoreboard tells a different story than the effort put forth by the Red Devils. For a team who wasn't supposed to "hang" with the big boys, survive the first round of sectionals, or just focus on re-building, they sure left their mark on Indiana high school football. "The Red Devils did the unthinkable and accomplished their ultimate goal, leaving it better than they found it. Each player made contributions to the success of the Red Devils this year," Tony Demario (12) said.

The Game Never Ends

The sun rose and alarms across the town were shut off as hundreds of fans slept in, resting from a long night spent at the big game the night before. The stands in the Inferno were no longer packed to the brim. For most people, Saturday morning meant getting to catch up on the energy they willingly poured out by cheering on their favorite football team. For the JV Football team, though, sleeping in wasn't on the agenda. Saturday morning brought them another game with new challenges and new opportunities. "Saturday games were our time to shine," Kyle Richwalski (10) said.

Sprinting. Tackling. Running the plays they had practiced hundreds of times. No matter how tired they were, they left it all on their game field. So how did they do it? How did they come out running strong when they were running on empty? When it came to getting pumped up and prepared for the game, Tim Mize (10) said, "I listen to music and just dream about what's going to happen and what I need to do."

It was Lowell. In the end, the JV Football team did what they did for one reason. It didn't matter what time or what day of the week it was; they loved the game. "I play football because I can't live without it," Nick Tokarz (11) said.

A frightful delight!

Fear. Anxiety. Anticipation. Excitement. All of these words describe the feelings the girls golf team felt throughout the season. From the moment the season started to the last swing of the golf club, things were constantly changing. It was a roller coaster we were all willing to ride.

The season began with fear. Fear because there was only one senior on this young team. Fear because two new faces showed up on the green. Fear because the varsity line up would change. And fear because the two number one players had graduated. After the fear subsided it was time to practice harder than before.

The anxiety came next. The first few matches came and went when the team realized that each had her own problems to focus on. It was early enough in the season that they could take risks and see what would benefit their game the most. "This was my first year playing varsity. After I got rid of my nerves I focused on getting better," Shelbi Hardin (11) said.

They were satisfied with a record of 14-8, but the season was not over. The girls had a few practices left, but only the varsity players would be participating in sectionals. They were beautiful fall days, and the team enjoyed spending their last times together out on the green in preparation. They focused and waited with anticipation, determined that all of their hard work would pay off.

It was finally here. Only a few more golfers had to post their scores, and the girls were so close they could feel it. After playing a six hour round of golf, players are typically exhausted. The adrenaline running through their aching bodies kept them going. Although the wait seemed like hours, the excitement finally set in. The Lowell girls golf team was announced third place winner and would advance to the regional. Although they did not make it out of regionals, they were completely satisfied with their record. Throughout a season full of emotions, the girls knew if they put their heart in the game, they could achieve their goals.

Bye Bye Coach

"Four on three, four on three, one two three four." This is the sound of the boy's tennis team chanting before every match. This was a tough season for the boys. Nick Kieta and Zach Bruckman, the team captains, were the only returning varsity players. Their record wasn't as pleasing as what they had wanted it to be. At the end of the season, the tennis team got the news that the head coach, Dustin Hudak, was stepping down from the head position. "I don't think any of us tennis players really saw it coming. It was really a big surprise to me. He was a really good coach, and also a good friend," Josh Henshilwood (11) said.

When Ryan Welser (10) was asked what his opinion on coach Hudak leaving was he said "It's upsetting that he is leaving us and our whole team is going to miss him. I wish him good luck on his new career." Kyle Eads, one of the single players on varsity this year, showed that he could play at the top level. "Coach Hudak was a solid coach all around. He always knew what he was talking about and was well liked by the team," Kyle Eads (9) said.
